

We are a family-run company.

Our most important company value is our independence.

That means being independent from individual industries, customers, and products, as well as being financially independent.

Having liquidity is a requirement for this.

We stand for sustainable corporate action.

That means developing and maintaining stable and lasting customer and supplier relationships.

We grow through our own efforts. One prerequisite for this is making company decisions for the long term.

We are a reliable and competent partner for our customers.

Our technical expertise allows us to take on challenges and offer appropriate solutions with confidence – from development through series production and onwards. Our manufacturing competence is based on decades of experience.

We stand for high quality in all processes.

High-quality machines and equipment and sound technical knowledge allow us to fulfill our own high quality standards and those of our customers.

In the process, we always keep an eye on balancing resources, such as personnel, time, finances, tools, raw materials, and protecting the environment.

Honesty and trust are important to us.

That's why we support an open and cooperative company culture, both internally and externally. Respectful, friendly interactions characterize our positive work environment, one that also includes space for humor and joy.
